About This Certified Course

Safety Critical - Driving for Work - Managing the Risks of Intoxicants (defined as drugs and alcohol)

Driving for work involves a risk not only for the driver, but also for fellow workers and members of the public, such as pedestrians and other road users. Driving for work includes any person who drives on a road as part of their work either in:

- A company vehicle
- Their own vehicle and receives an allowance from their employer for miles driven.

As an employer or self-employed person, you must, by law manage the risks that may arise when you or your employees drive for work. Although employers cannot directly control roadway conditions they can promote and influence safe and intoxicant free driving behaviour amongst their employees.

Learning Objectives

At the end of this training those attending will have knowledge of:

- Assessing the risks associated with driving in the course of work under the influence of intoxicants ((defined as drugs and alcohol)
- Penalties for breaches of the Road Traffic Acts, including suspension.
- Road Traffic Act 2016 - Use of hand held mobile devices while driving

Presenter

Maurice Quinlan Director of EAP Institute introduced the Occupational Alcoholism Programme (OAPs) concept to Europe and hosted the first seminar on this topic in the Clarence Hotel, Dublin, in September 1980. In 2018 he designed a new model of Employee Support Services (ESS) to manage workplace mental health risks.
